

ABOUT THIS REPORT

This report was produced using historical on the market rental and sales listing data at a suburb level for houses or units. This report is designed to identify the suburbs with the biggest increase in stock on market for the current month when compared to the stock on market for the same period 12 months ago. A large increase in stock on market could indicate weakening demand conditions or an increase in supply from growing activity in the market. You should always conduct additional due diligence on any property and the suburb it is located in to ensure it meets your investment criteria.

This report was produced using historical on the market rental and sales listing data at a suburb level for houses or units. This report is designed to identify the suburbs with the biggest increase in stock on market for the current month when compared to the stock on market for the same period 12 months ago. A large increase in stock on market could indicate weakening demand conditions or an increase in supply from growing activity in the market. You should always conduct additional due diligence on any property and the suburb it is located in to ensure it meets your investment criteria.

This report was produced using historical on the market rental and sales listing data at a suburb level for houses or units. This report is designed to identify the suburbs with the biggest increase in stock on market for the current month when compared to the stock on market for the same period 12 months ago. A large increase in stock on market could indicate weakening demand conditions or an increase in supply from growing activity in the market. You should always conduct additional due diligence on any property and the suburb it is located in to ensure it meets your investment criteria.

ABOUT THIS REPORT

This report was produced using historical on the market rental and sales listing data at a suburb level for houses or units. This report is designed to identify the suburbs with the biggest increase in stock on market for the current month when compared to the stock on market for the same period 12 months ago. A large increase in stock on market could indicate weakening demand conditions or an increase in supply from growing activity in the market. You should always conduct additional due diligence on any property and the suburb it is located in to ensure it meets your investment criteria.
